

I support and use satellite radio. My boyfriend does too! he's an over the road truck driver . he goes all over the country and utilizes the traffic and weather stations on satellite instead of having to surf through channels in every state in order to get the information he needs. as for me I like satellite radio because I don't get all that talk talk talk first thing in the morning during my what should be short commute to work. what's so different between traffic and weather and music. all the stations have all of these things why not satellite. besides I pay for the service and I don't have to listen to a bunch of load mouth ads tell me about something I really really really don't need or want.....this is a waste of tax payers money along with a lot of other things to even consider weather or not traffic and weather should be on satellite air waves especially the ones I'M PAYING FOR !
